

GOING FOR MAXWELL.

Officers Bound for the Murderer of Preller.

There arrived yesterday by the 11:40 train in this city James Tracy and G. W. Badger, members of the police force of St. Louis, Mo., who have been detailed by the State as well as the general government to proceed to Auckland, New Zealand, for the extradition of the murderer of Arthur Preller, in the Southern Hotel, of St. Louis, is yet well remembered. James Tracy has been appointed the agent of the State by the President, and G. W. Badger accompanies him under the order of the Board of Police Commissioners of the city of St. Louis.

Shortly after their arrival they were interviewed by a Call reporter. Mr. Tracy is a man of middle age, with a clean shaven face and bright eyes. His companion is a taller and younger man. Both have long been connected with the Police Department of St. Louis, and both from the first were interested in the case.

"Do I expect trouble in New Zealand?" replied Mr. Tracy, with a laugh, "I am not sure, but I have been told that the investigation of the reporter. Well, I can hardly answer that. Of course, Maxwell is in safe keeping; and after our arrival there he has fifteen days' time for an appeal. Up to this time he has had the case remanded to every eight days, and will continue to do so until we get there. Well, if he has money he may make a hard fight of it, and keep us there for an indefinite period. Yes, I believe there is exactly attorney, but he may not be exactly satisfied with him alone, and may secure the services of other lawyers. I suppose it is the same in New Zealand as it is in other places. If a man has no money he has to go to the wall, but if Maxwell has money he can give us no end of trouble."

MAXWELL'S LINE OF DEFENSE.

"What will be Maxwell's line of defense?"

"Well, of course he will put us off with writs of habeas corpus, and his lawyer may refuse to believe the evidence that we have in our position. There is not the slightest shadow of a doubt in my mind that Maxwell is the murderer of Preller. We have all the evidence upon the case."

"How will you proceed in the affair?"

"That, too, I can hardly answer. I suppose we shall at once proceed to our Consul, and with his aid we shall place our papers before the court. We sail from this city on Saturday, and expect to be in New Zealand on the 27th inst. If there is no fight, and Maxwell is immediately given into our possession, we will return by the next steamer. Our conduct to him on board will certainly be guided by his conduct. It is pretty certain that he will have to be ironed on the way home, so as to insure against any possible attempt at suicide. Yes, you will have a chance to see him when we bring him back, as it is our intention to stay at least a couple of days before we start back east."

"How is it that Mr. O'Neil, the newspaper man, does not go with you?"

"I will easily explain that. F. R. O'Neil was appointed, as has been Mr. Badger, by the board of police commissioners. At the time of his appointment he was a reporter on the Post Dispatch, but since then has been made managing editor of the Missouri Republican, and he did not think he would be justified in giving up so good a billet for the voyage that we are now undertaking. Mr. O'Neil was chosen on account of his knowledge of international law."

DISSEMINATED REPORTS.

"There is no truth, then, in the report that his not going was a matter of dissatisfaction?"

"None whatsoever. He himself refused the appointment, and I am sure our appointments were received with universal satisfaction."

"Is there still considerable interest vied in the case in St. Louis?"

"Yes, there is. The men had attracted a great deal of attention. The case was so brutal, and the papers worked up the excitement well, so that there can be no surprise that interest is still alive. In my opinion the murder was committed purely for money. There can be no plausible reason. By the way, it is a strange coincidence, is it not, that we occupied the same sleeping-car coming from the east as did Maxwell? And what is more singular still Mr. Badger slept in the same berth. The conductor John Stanton, and the porter, Solomon Royston, were also with the same car. Newton, yes, of course, it was purely accidental that we should have the same sleeping-cars, Newton and Modesto, running on our trip, and more accidental still that Badger should sleep in the berth once occupied by the man whom he is going to bring back to be hanged."—Call.

The Lava District.

It is reported that John W. Mackay has an agent at Lava negotiating for the purchase of Frank Martin's Horn Silver bonanza. It would be a glorious thing for the mining industry here, if the old Comstock millionaire should take hold of such an excellent property.

A later report, says the Bellevue Chronicle, is to the effect that Pat Kernan, John W. Mackay's expert, telegraphed to Salt Lake, Saturday evening, that Mackay would take the Horn Silver at Frank Martin's price—$275,000.—Idaho Register.

THE ENGINEER, Mr. Burke, who came out on a dispatch to test the Crescent tramway engine, made the first attempt Tuesday afternoon with it and got up as far as the trestle work in "Nigger Canyon." As he reached that point and examined the bridge he concluded it was strong enough to hold him up, and wanted to cross over, but Mr. F. H. Iyer thought it best not to try it until the bridge had been strengthened and he at once put men to work with that purpose in view. Another trial trip will be made to-morrow and Mr. Burke says he will reach the Crescent mines if the track will hold him. He says the engine was built for this purpose and he knows he can make it do the work.—Park Record.

GOSSIP AS TO MORMONS.

Still Gravely Discussing the Coming Mormon Exodus.

The Philadelphia Press of a late date contains a dispatch from New York stating in substance that the recent effect of the Edmunds law in Utah has led the authorities of the Mormon Church to proffer a sale of all their possessions to a syndicate of eastern capitalists, with a view of going to Mexico. There is probably more theory here than fact. Certain Mormon leaders have explored Mexico pretty thoroughly. An effort was made to effect a treaty with the Yaqui Indians in Sonora, an independent tribe who hold a large area of good valley land. For some reason that plan did not succeed. These Indians are now at war with the Federal authorities of Mexico. As we understand the matter, the authorities there were willing to receive the Mormons as colonists, but they are not willing to tolerate the practice of polygamy. Without that toleration Mexico would be a no more attractive place for Mormons than Utah.

The Press quotes from a correspondent who formerly lived in Utah:

"It has long been the desire of a strong faction of the active leaders among the Mormons to get away from Utah. I presume that the convictions under the Edmunds bill have given them the excuse for pressing their views on the rest of the church. There is very little common property held by the church. The Territory is divided into districts, each district is given over to an apostle. There are upwards of 100 Bishops, chosen for their business capacity. The Bishop's silent partner is the apostle for his district. The entire scheme is to get up a monopoly of trade. No other Mormon is allowed to start a store and the Mormons are forbidden to trade with the Gentiles."

"If an offer of property has been made to eastern capitalists it is the property of individuals. It may be a big scheme to sell land that is otherwise unsalable. The Mormons are equal to any such trick, and the Youngs are sharp enough to put it through."

It is said that the agent for the proposed sale is John F. Young. Such a scheme may have been talked up by him; but there is little prospect that any syndicate has been formed, or will be formed to purchase the Mormon property at Salt Lake. The more transfer of temples, tithing and other religious houses would not affect the individual property of the great body of Mormons in that city. However, if the leaders once undertook the work of another migration, the lay Mormons would follow. At present the plan seems to be to plant colonies in the outlying Territories, and to stimulate their growth as rapidly as possible. The Mexican colonization scheme in connection with the sale of church property in Utah, has just now more of shadow than substance.—San Francisco Bulletin, 4th.

FOR SALE.

SHORT HORN AND HEREFORD CATTLE.

I will sell one hundred high grade Short Horn Bulls and fifty Hereford grade Bulls to be delivered on or before November 1st, 1885.

These cattle are bred and raised in my celebrated Short Horn herd, which I have been breeding up with thorough-bred pedigrees Short Horn cattle since the year 1872 and a great many of the dams of these bulls offered are full bred Short Horn cows.

This herd of cattle is well known to stockmen of this western country; the cattle being bred and raised in this Mountain country makes them more desirable than Eastern raised cattle, as they are already acclimated.

Please note cattle killed from my herd: One steer three years and five months old dressed net beef 1,412 pounds; two cows dressed 1,400 pounds each; one steer 1,390 pounds, twenty-six months old, and a large number of steers weighing 800 pounds net beef at three years old. Those wishing to purchase will please engage at once as none other only to fill orders will be reserved.

Also one thorough-bred Hereford, 2-year-old, now ready for delivery.
